We are recruiting community members to provide feedback in a survey of initiatives for early intervention research for ASD.

This survey contains a research agenda created by stakeholder teams of autistic adults, parents, and early intervention professionals. The goal of this survey is to learn more about perspectives on early intervention research from members of the autism community.

This effort is part of a federally-funded project designed to create stakeholder-driven change at a national level.

Survey participation will take about 30 minutes. To accommodate diverse needs, alternative administrations are available (e.g. interview form, support person). Participants may enter a drawing for a $20 gift card upon survey completion.
